DEDICATION

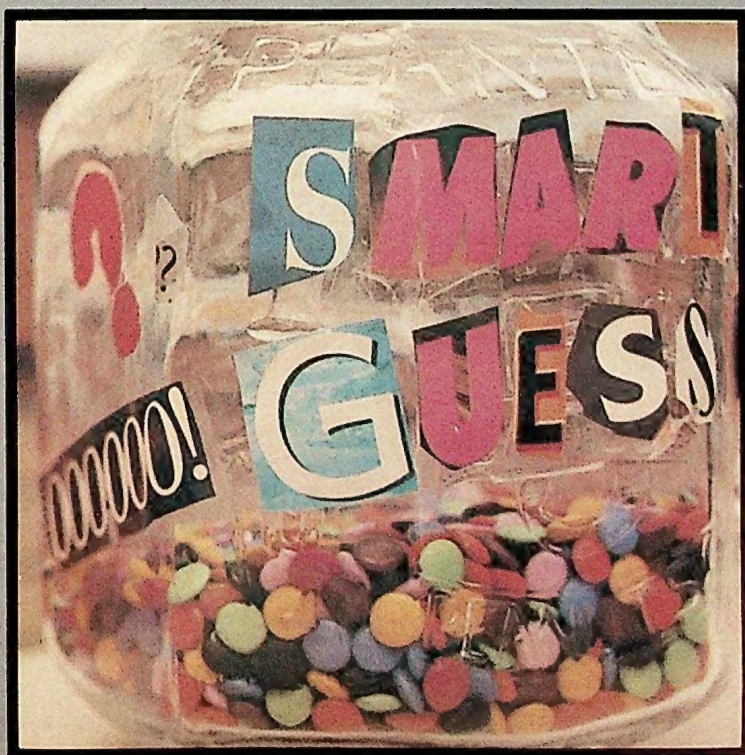

This edition of the TITAN TRADITION is dedicated to Mr. Leon Rebryna, former principal of Harry Ainlay Composite High School. Mr. Rebryna served as principal of this fine school from 1977 until his retirement this past June, 1984. Under his leadership, Harry Ainlay became the finest high school in Edmonton, and for this, we are all grateful. The staff and students of Harry Ainlay Composite High School would like to wish Mr. Rebryna the best of life in his retirement years.

ACTIVITIES

TRON

Spirit Week got off to a great start as Harry Ainley welcomed our incoming grade 10's to the school. Monday started us off with the students organizing teams for Tug-O-War. Everyone got into the spirit and the winning team received eight free tickets to the dance to be held on Friday which featured "20 Feet". Tuesday followed with the pillow fights and everybody got the chance to see just how well-balanced Ainlayites really are! On Wednesday, students got yet another chance to show their craziness on inside-out day.

SPIRIT WEEK

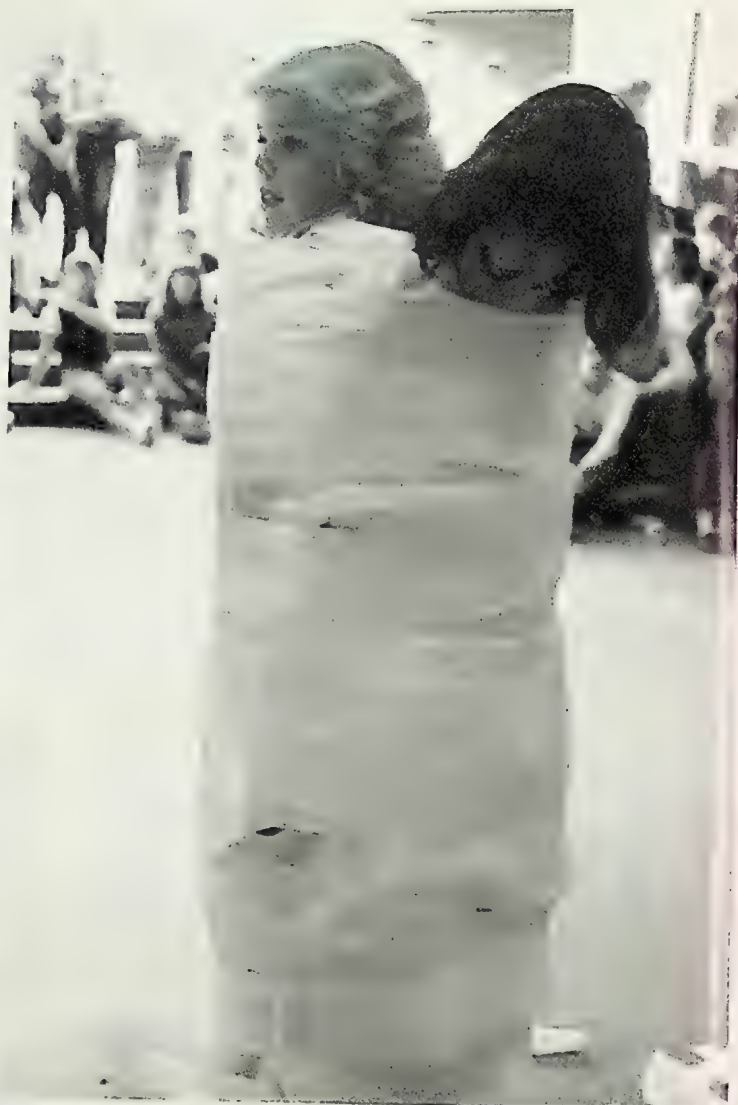

N A I A D

ACTIVITIES

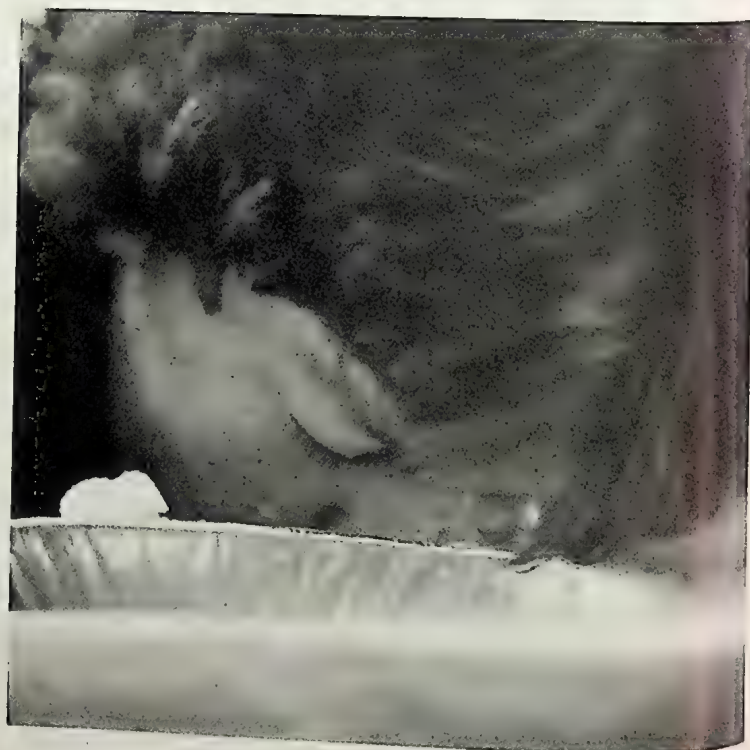

Naiad was a fun-filled week full of chances for the girls of Harry Ainlay to really show their stuff. Naiad was not a beauty contest, but rather a test of agility and dexterity. The contestants were judged before a panel of teachers on events like the scavenger hunt, log hammering, log sawing, and chariot races (the best we could do for the chariots was the shopping carts). Special congratulations to Michelle Szabo, our reigning queen who received a modeling course from John Casablanca as her prize.

HALLOWEEN

The spooky week of Halloween was an experience for all this year. On Wednesday October 26, just as Ainlay's newest arrivals were starting to understand the ways of all Ainlayites, Halloween week snuck up on them and had them quaking in their sneakers, while our graduates-to-be succeeded in showing everyone what Halloween at Ainlay is really like.

It was understandable to presume that many students thought the school had turned to military dictatorship as air cadets patrolled our halls. There were smurfs in our social class, dancers to liven up our physics class, and rabbits doing their dissections in biology. It was easy to find people slightly on guard as we all were on the watch for a certain doctor running around madly cutting off heads of sweet innocent girls.

Thursday saw the rotunda filled with biology flunk-outs trying to perform labotomies on half mutilated pumpkins. Thursday was also the day for our pie eating contest. The view of people stuffing their faces was not particularly new to us since most of us have been in the cafeteria at lunchtime but this was the first chance we had to get prizes for being ourselves. Although their intentions were purely game, it makes you wonder how deep some people really are inside.

Friday was costume day with a fashion contest at lunch. Colleen MacCalder and Brent Webster won first prize for their portrayal of the bunny and the hunter. The Halloween Dance followed that night and featured the ever-popular A.S.A.

MONDAY - candy canes were sold in the bookstore. They were distributed on Thursday to our sweethearts from all us secret admirers. How romantic!

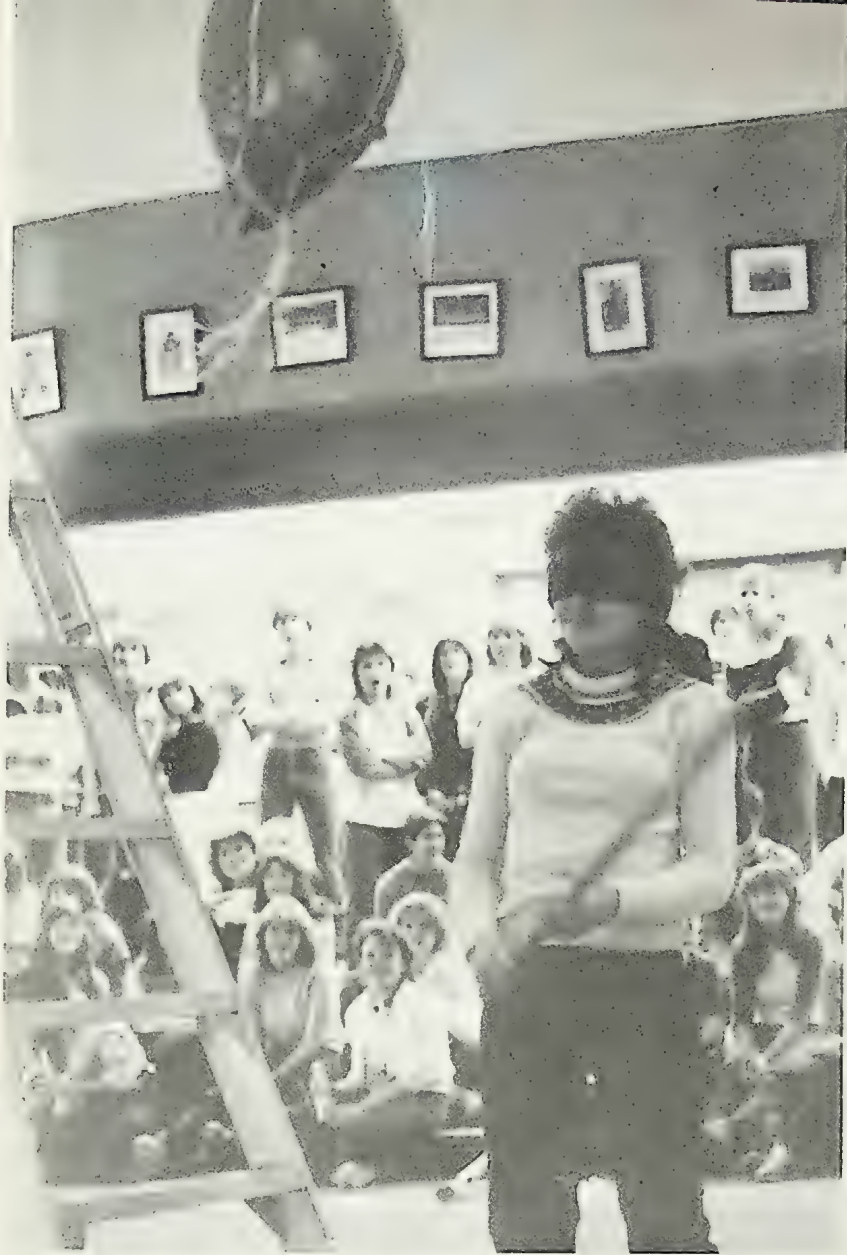

TUESDAY - still selling candy canes. We had a heck of a good laugh watching Mr. Stolee have a go at the Pinyata.

WEDNESDAY - still selling candy canes. Santa came early this year to listen to all of us telling him what good little students we've been this year while we sat in his lap. We got to have our picture taken with him and take it home to our mommies and daddies to finally prove to them that Santa Claus really did exist. (Even though he bore a remarkable resemblance to Mr. Marshall).

CHRISTMAS WEEK

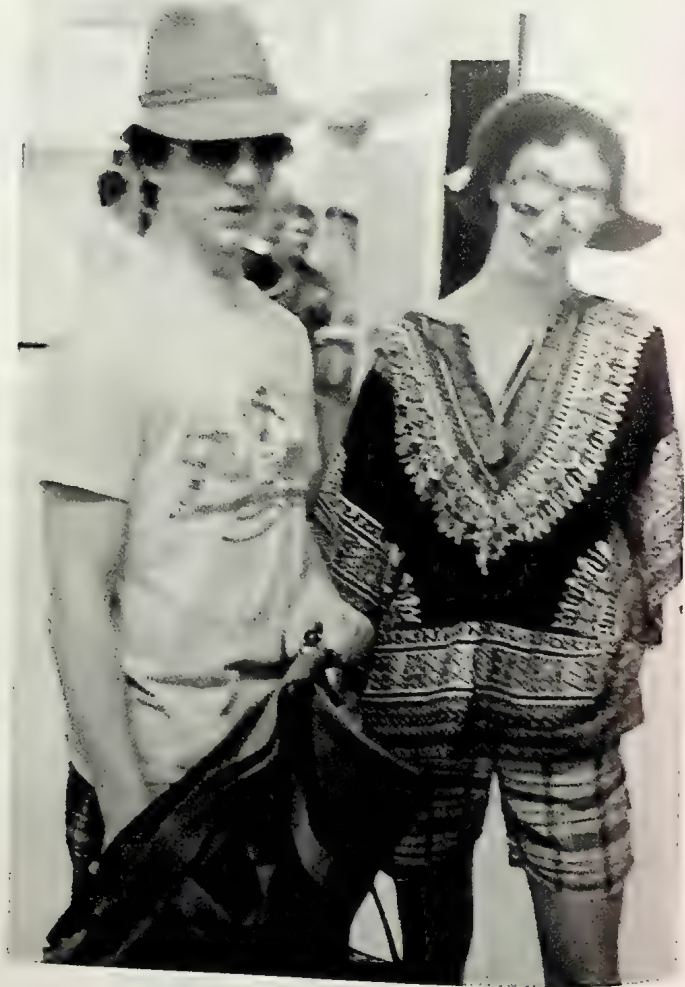

THURSDAY - Carol singing in the rotunda. Oh what fun it was!!!

FRIDAY - We all got to stuff ourselves at the annual Harry Ainlay Pancake Breakfast that lasted from 10:28 to 12:42. And of course we all participated in the annual food fight that followed.

TROPICAL WEEK

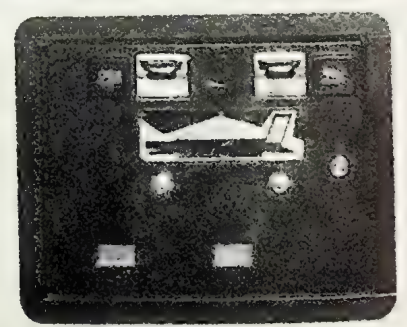

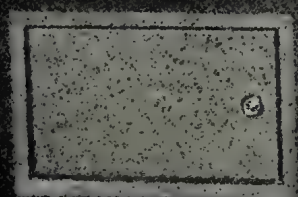

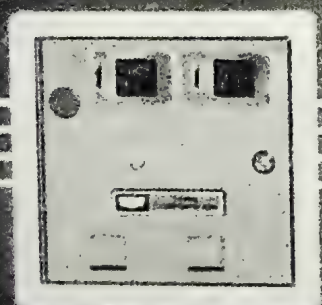

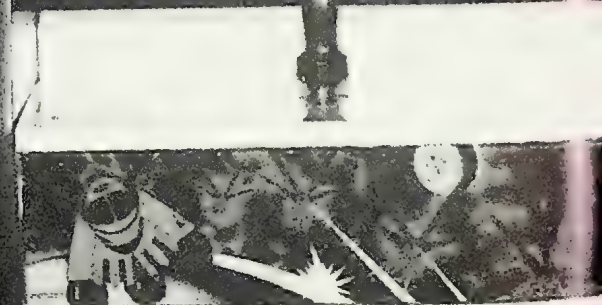

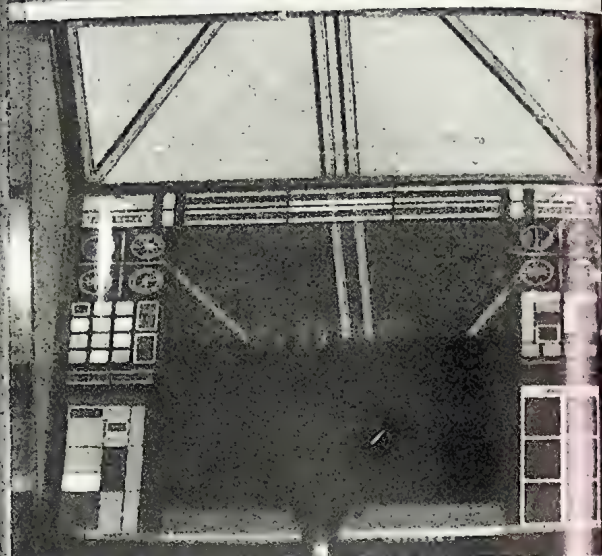

Everyone at Ainlay looked forward to Tropical Week this year as a chance to shed their winter covers and expose to all the pinkish-white skin underneath. March 12-16 was a marvelous opportunity for all our visitors to see what great taste we Ainlayites have when it came to color coordination, and what little there was to see when it came to the newest fashions in shorts. Indeed Tropical Week was one of discoveries. The limbo contest taught everyone with broken backs and very flat heads that they shouldn't have skipped their physics classes on the day they were to learn about the force of gravity. And, by golly, we learned that grapes are not very easy to catch 20 feet across the rotunda, coming at us at the speed of light. Friday was dress up day and we were all treated to a view of lawn chairs and pineapples during morning breaks. Unfortunately, the nurse had her share of work cut out for her in the frostbite department since SOMEONE forgot to turn up the heat.

FACULTY

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

Goethe said "The important thing in life is to have a great aim, and to possess the aptitude and perseverance to attain it."

You may have not been aware of the fact that one of the basic philosophies of Harry Ainlay school is to provide you with opportunities to "discover yourself" and thus provide you with a career goal in your life. To some extent this may be interpreted as selfish for we all know that students with established goals are more highly motivated and we all know that successful teaching is very much dependent upon motivation.

Now we are assuming that most high school graduates have set a goal for themselves; this may or may not be a fact. For those who have, the next step is persistence and determination in achieving that goal for nothing in the world, including talent, genius and education, can take the place of persistence. All people who succeed in attaining their goals will tell you that you must persist and persevere. If you would like to be great in some field, you must be willing to achieve that ambition through hard work, through long hours and through great sacrifice. This is the time to resolve to acquire the tenacity to stick to your ambition and to have your footsteps pointed in that direction.

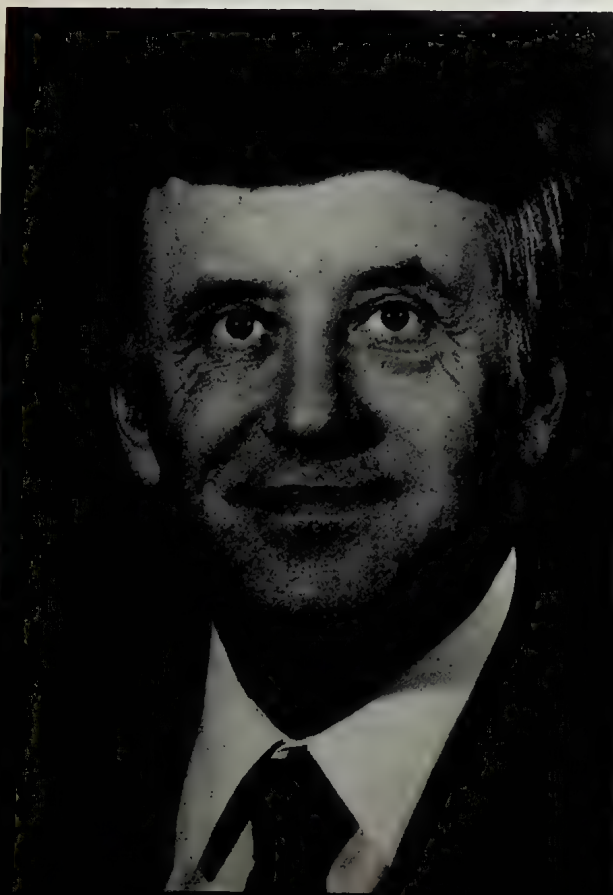

It is H.W. Austin who said,

"Genius, that power which dazzles mortal eyes,
Is oft but perseverance in disguise."

And that statement held in the past, holds in the present and will hold in the future.

ART AND LITERATURE

Roberta,

upon renting an apartment on an upper level, found that while the elevator lifted her physical presence to its level of belonging, it had no such effect on her spirit. Roberta understood that although this device was an "elevator", the true uplifting of the spirit, or soul, could not be accomplished by it. This was not a surprise, but certainly a disappointment to Roberta, whose imagination then took over where the elevator had left off. Roberta's karma could not be denied by the mere inadequacies of the Otis Elevator Company.

THE GLOWING FIRE

The glowing fire of falling night,
With beauty, promises next days light.
If only people in darkness falling
Could be promised beauty and new day's dawning.

To Robert Frost --

I also am acquainted with the night,
But not on peaceful walks through city streets.
We've met and wrestled 'cross a cluttered desk;
Ours not the meeting of dear friends -- my pen
My unsheathed sword, my page laced with my blood.
Oh, yes, I'm well acquainted with the night:
Its leering visage lurks behind each day
As in a drowsy dream I pass my life.
And when, again the sunset brings it to
My door, it finds me hard at work and flaunts
Its unattainable oblivion
At my poor, red-rimmed eyes and weary head.
Oh, would that I could pass my days a stranger
To the haunting face of midnight, and
Be unaware of countless unslept hours!
But yet my fate resides with its; and when,
With rosy fingers, dawn uproots me from
My hard-won resting place, my only wish
Is once more to acquaint myself with night.

By Kim Davis

1984 Olympus 3rd place for poetry

THE RIVER IS ME

I am a runner trying to catch eternity.
I am always searching for new ways to go.
Flowing through some days with ease
Others, crashing with white caps.

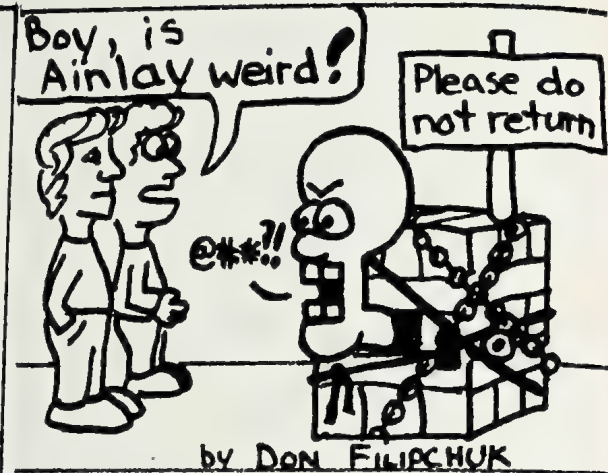

Always trying to expand my horizons
But sometimes colliding with rocks.
Others always joining with me
Intensifying my total inner magnitude.

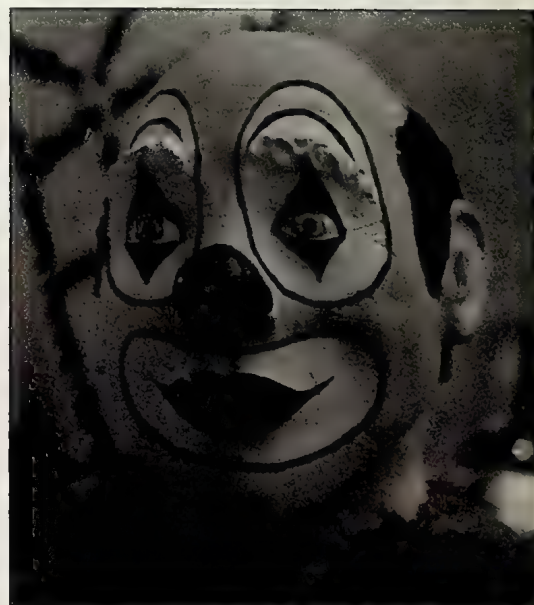

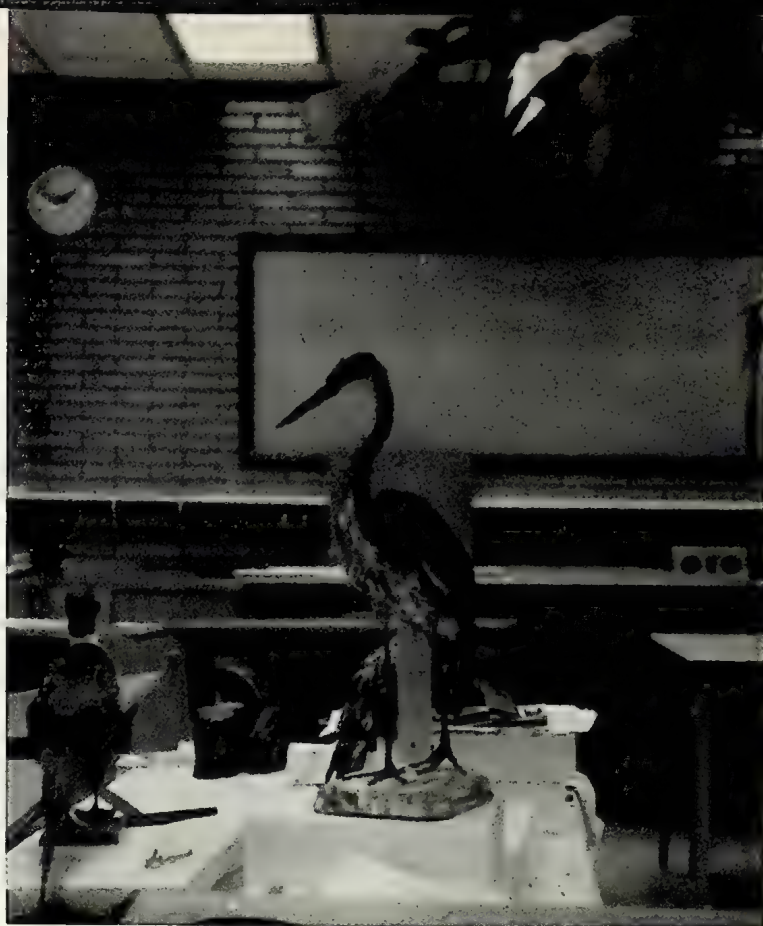

One day something hurts me
My exterior becomes solid and cold
Until the next warm breeze.

O.K. guys this is it ... THE FINAL PAGE (more or less)

This page is for the yearbook staff who were able to put up with Vicki this year. THANKS GUYS, YOU ARE TRULY DEDICATED. And to those yearbook members who were able to withstand my constant nagging, complaining and constant insults. This page is also to all of those who occasionally walked by the Yearbook Room, poked their head in and said, "Hi" with a big smile only to hear in reply "GET LOST". It is to those people I thank you. And Patrick, our flawless photographer, you are definitely ONE IN A MILLION. I know that recognition of all the people that put this book together are recognized at the end but I would like to thank some of the students I have gotten to know. To Gina and Tammy (next year's editors) all I have to say is GOOD LUCK!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!! Mr. Mathew, if I were you I'd give up your input.

Charlene, Shelly (whose last name I don't know) and Leanne, you guys cheered up the ol' Y.B. room with your input.

Keven and Doug, it's good to see someone likes to take Y.B. pictures. Shauna and Georgia, I haven't forgotten you it's just that I don't have anything to say to either of you. I MUST ADMIT THAT Y.B. HAS CERTAINLY BEEN AN ENCOUNTER. To all those on it next year GOOD LUCK!!!

The Grad Council set itself two main objectives: the first was to try and involve all of the grade twelve students through participation in fund raising. The second was to make Grad '84 a resounding success. The Grad President can proudly say both objectives were reached and with very gratifying results. Their first bottle drive was held in December shortly followed by strawberry shortcakes at "Meet the Creature Night". The activities continued in April with the annual Grad fashion show. Some of the latest styles in gowns, suits and tuxedos were modelled by Ainlay's fellow classmates.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Every year the Students' Union President in his message makes mention of how successful a year the SU has had. My emphasis will not lie here as it only serves to glorify the President and the Council, and glory is not my goal. Although many of the Students' Union's events such as the dances, the activities weeks, the Valentine Flower sales, and the Mr. Legs Contest enjoyed a great deal of participation, it is difficult to determine if this participation represents success. Earlier this year I met a very wise and funny man who explained what success in Students' Council is. He said that if your work and efforts make someone's time in school even a little bit better, whether you know that person or not, you have achieved some measure of success. And I guess the incredible school spirit (it's been as solid as any I have ever seen) and general interest in Ainlay this year means that some success was achieved.

However the success of individuals, of you, is much more important than any success the Students' Union could have. We are living in a time in which even the things that we take for granted are hard to come by. No longer is a job guaranteed after four years of university or admission to university guaranteed if you work hard in high school. We must set our goals high and aim to achieve them using the old-fashioned work ethic. Whether your goal is to reach university or to climb a mountain or to be a jet pilot, you must strive to reach beyond or you can never fully realize your potential. As you step into the world beyond Ainlay, you will need to draw upon all the resources you have accumulated because your full potential will be tested. Reliance on luck, charm or the efforts of others has become a thing of the past. This does not mean becoming selfish, it simply means that hard work is needed to achieve your goal or possibly just survive.

Even though I have painted a gloomy picture and predicted a tough road for all, I truly feel that everyone has the ability to succeed in his life. I sincerely hope that Harry Ainlay (and the Students' Union) has provided opportunities for you to experiment, experience and lay a base on which to build the future. I hope that Ainlay had been a place where you could grow and expand and feel the love of friends and the agony of defeats in a risk free environment.

I wish you all the best and success in the rest of your life.

Thanks for the memories,

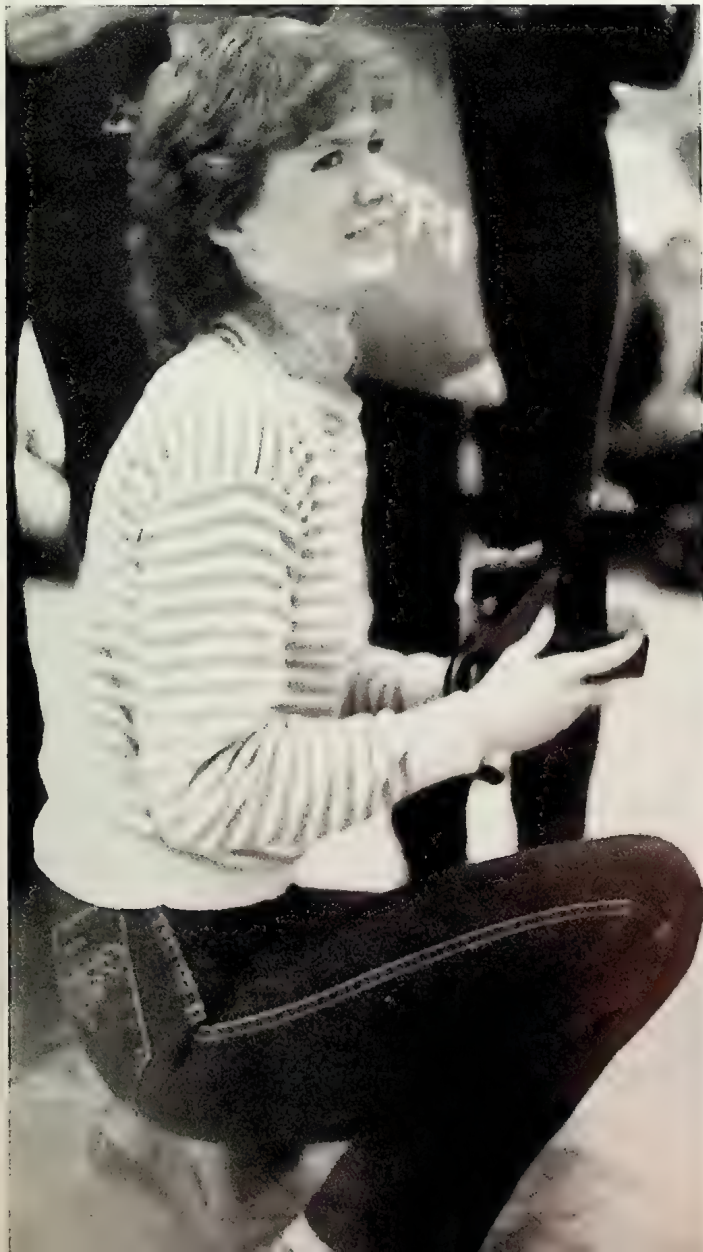

Andy Jenkins

TEACHERS

Mrs. Slevinsky
Mr. Wynn

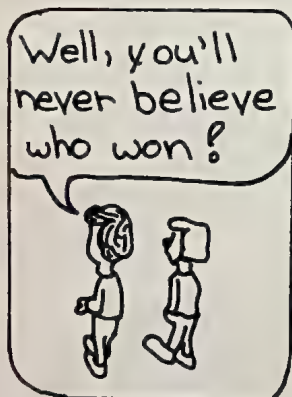

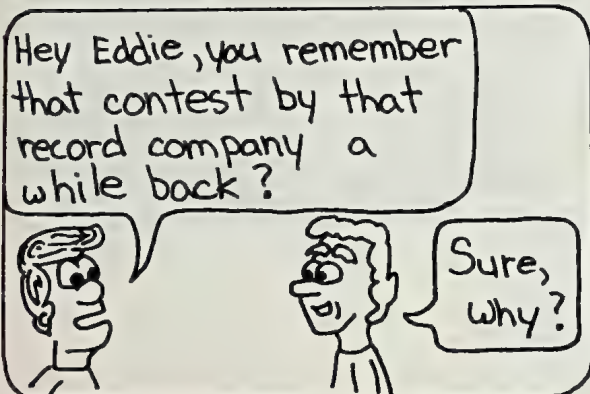

In April, twenty students from Harry Ainlay went on a Biology field trip to Bamfield Marine Station. Along with the two teacher-chaperones, Mrs. Slevinsky and Mr. Wynne. We first flew to Vancouver Island and spent a day in Victoria visiting Goldstream Provincial Park, the museum and the University of Victoria. Then we proceeded to Bamfield for two days of studying marine life. This entailed collecting specimens and taking them back to the marine station's lab for further observation. To round off our perfect trip, some of the braver students went body surfing in the 42°F water of the Pacific Ocean.

THE ADVENTURES OF SIV!

The Titanic took another voyage this year, and made it without hitting any icebergs. A new look graced our pages and brightened our dismal paper. Though we began with a large and enthusiastic crew, we soon had mutiny on the bounty and many were claimed; however, there was a lot of fun with the remaining survivors. Again we had a whole year to party and maybe get a paper out in-between. We would like to thank Mr. Burgess for his guidance and help especially on our most difficult days ... the deadlines. Also thanks go out to Mr. Mathews, the ladies at the print shop, and the typists for their assistance and tolerance. Thanks to K.M. and T.M. for their profound words, C.M. and R.K. for their interior decorating ideas and D.T. for her tolerance.

TR I -PROV EXECUTIVE

Every year Harry Ainlay is known for its annual hosting of the Tri-Province basketball tournament.

This year the tournament was a huge success and fun was had by all, players and spectators alike. Congratulations must go to all the Tri-Prov staff and everyone else that worked to make it such a wonderful event. T-shirts and souvenirs were sold to mark the memory of Tri-Prov and everyone is looking forward to next year's competition and are ready to cheer on not only our teams but our executives too, to show our grand appreciation.

TVT EXECUTIVE

TVT '83 was the fifth time students of Harry Ainlay have rallied together to produce a major high school volleyball tournament. This year's student executive performed admirably and TVT '83 was another huge success. Led by Student Chairperson Carole Richford and Treasurer Peggy Caine, the student committees made Harry Ainlay come alive with "volleyball fever". Publicity (Laura Talbot) and Programs (Chris King) helped fill the stands with over 1500 spectators over the two and a half day spectacle. Opening and closing ceremonies (Jennifer Gotaas), hosts and hostesses (Sue Neiser), equipment (Brian Bens) and tournament information (Liana PettaPiece) were other areas of responsibility that were handled professionally and showed Western Canadian high school students that Harry Ainlay is unquestionably NUMBER ONE!!!

CROSS COUNTRY RUNNING

With more than twenty original members in the club, all of them advanced to the city finals.

Under the leadership of Miss Silk, the cross-country running team sent seven of their members to the Provincial championships in Camrose, where all the participants did their very best, bringing home another victory for Ainlay.

The students on the team had the stamina, guts, and ability to get out there and run four, five, or six kilometers to the finish line.

It includes not only the meets but all the hours of practice after school to get in shape. All of the members of the Harry Ainlay team made this year an excellent one for cross-country running.

The 1983-1984 ski club consisted of eight executive positions and 356 members. The executives and the staff sponsors, Mr. Pruden and Mr. Stolee, put together four very successful ski trips. Three of them were to Banff (Sunshine Village and Lake Louise) and a fourth to Whitefish, Montana (The Big Mountain). The ski club also brought ski films to the school which were shown to a host of many at lunch hours in the theatre.

MOLD IT, KILN IT, GLAZE IT

(this piece of poetry was done by an art student describing an everyday scene in the pottery room)

You could probably find the creative ones hanging around Mr. Miller's pottery room. The room was originally open on Tuesdays and Thursdays but by the end of the school year students were in there all the time. Mr. Miller is new at Harry Ainlay this year and gave guidance to all the students working in clay. There are many pieces of work done by the students that are often displayed in the Art Gallery showcases.

POTTERY CLUB

COMPUTER CLUB

Rarely a lunch hour went by without the computing club filled up to its electrodes in activity. The interest in computers has been overwhelming and for that reason the computing club was formed.

The club provided the chance for students to pursue their interests in greater detail than could be offered in class and also gave the members the chance to exchange ideas among themselves and give their assistance to any that needed it. Not a guy could be found in the room Thursdays at noon because of the "all girls club" but fortunately our guys didn't take their arguments to the courts to stop our heavy discrimination in the school.

CHESS CLUB

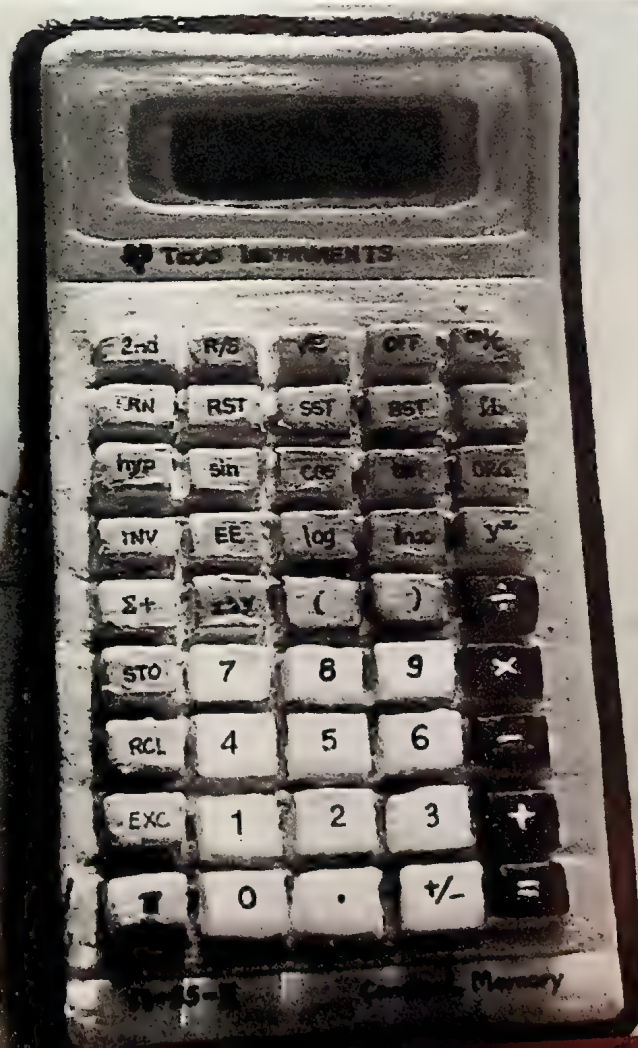

The Chess Club was not one of our larger clubs but it was certainly enjoyable for all of its members. The odd noon hour would be spent challenging the minds in "friendly" games of logic. All the members agreed it was a great way to spend a relaxing lunch hour.

MATH CLUB

Harry Ainlay Math Club consisted of a group of students who were interested in and had talent for mathematics. It's primary purpose was to give the students a chance to practise more challenging math questions, and to enter mathematics contests. The Harry Ainlay team was extremely successful, receiving national and provincial awards. A number of team members had also won individual prizes.

BOOKSTORE

Hurray for the Bookstore. Thanks to Miss Gargus and her crew of marketing students, Ainlayites have been able to satisfy their junk-food cravings. The Bookstore did sell other things like textbooks, much to the astonishment of the students. The students in the marketing classes gained valuable experience working in the store and had a great time doing it. This year the bookstore expanded their hours to include breaks, and received the thanks of half the population of the school.

Meeting once a week throughout the school year, the Inter-School Christian Fellowship club was the largest regularly meeting club in Harry Ainlay. A wide range of activities provided enjoyment and enlightenment for all who attended. Among these activities were films, musical presentations, group discussions and the infamous "Family Feud" - all of which were geared towards our goal of knowing Christ and making him known to others.

TRI-PROVINCE

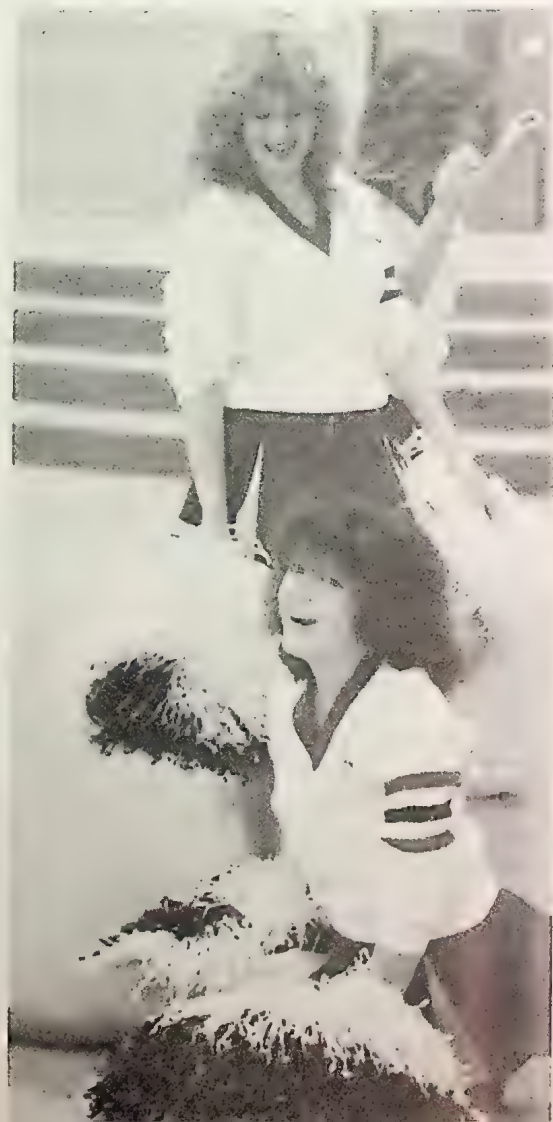

The 11th annual Tri Province Tournament took place on Feb. 9-11, 1984, with 13 teams competing. There were 3 B.C. teams, 2 Sask. teams, 2 teams from southern Alberta, and of course the 3 host teams. The Junior Titans became Junior Champions, the Senior Girls were Consolation Champs, and the Senior Titans failed to win the boys' crown, as they lost the final game to a team from B.C. Players from Ainlay who received special awards were Julius Cato, Dave Proctor, Mike Shea and Leon Carr.

CHEERLEADERS

SKI TEAM

The first of the new Hi-Star ski racing program was a great success. Harry Ainlay finished first overall in the regular season after completing an undefeated year. The racing is expected to be a great success in the future. This year's team wishes the best of luck to future Ainlay teams and hopes they have the same success as we have had. Harry Ainlay won the city championships in the finals.

WRESTLING

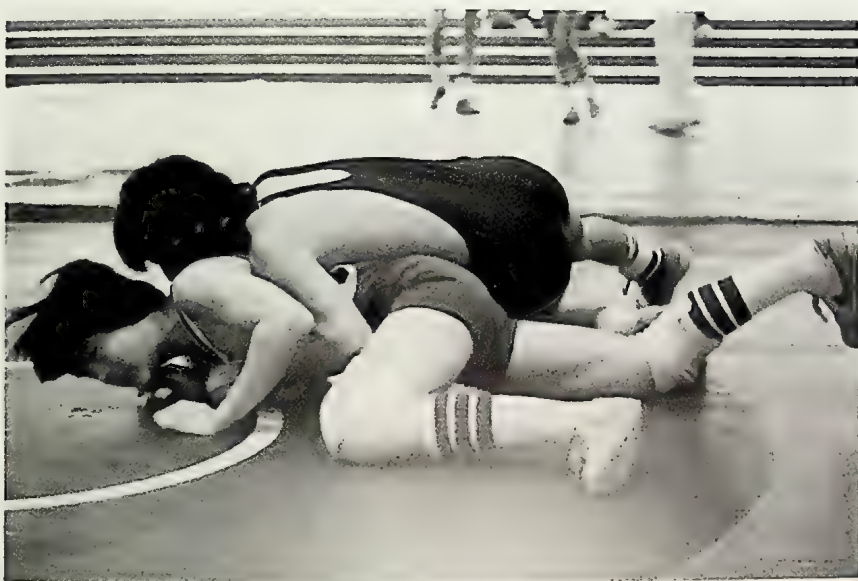

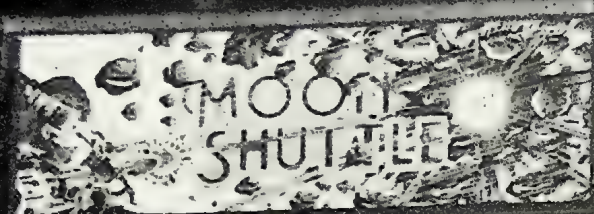

The Titans Wrestling Team again enjoyed a very successful year. Not only did they win the High School Wrestling League, they also won the Novice City Championships, the City Championship, and the Aggregate City Championships.

The team placed third in the Salisbury Open, followed this by placing second in the University of Alberta Open High School Tournament and then won the U of C High School Tournament.

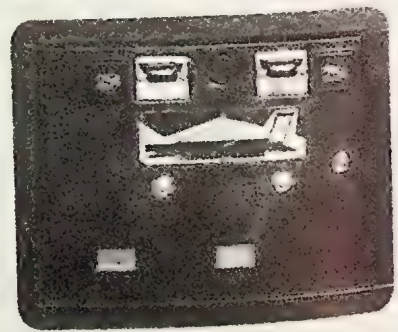

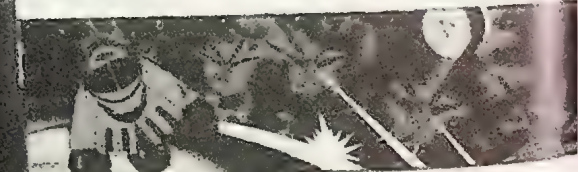

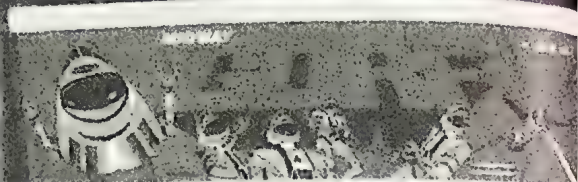

The Titans are losing a number of excellent wrestlers this year. Among these are: Doug Munro, Vang Foannides, Kevin Dowler, Brent Murray, Rob Filipchuk, Andrew Holmes, Doug Hallett, Vince Mattia, Kelly Fagan, Bruce Mattia, Peter Shipka. As well as Oan Gorgichuk, Rory Rousseau, Gord Mah, Jeff Thirsk and Randy Gibson. These wrestlers have been a solid nucleus for the Titans the last three years and their absence will mean a rebuilding year next year. It is hoped that we will be able to recruit some excellent prospects from Junior High Schools, as well as persuading wrestlers currently in school who did not wrestle last year, to join the team. There still are 30 wrestlers back next year.

STAR TREK

GRADE 12

VALEDICTORIAN

SVEN AIPPERSBACH

Thirty-six years ago, George Orwell made some very frightening predictions about what this very year, 1984, would be like. He predicted a world of oppression, a world in which human values had been obliterated, and a world in which the human being had been degraded to a mere economic integer, a number as it were. Human dignity and human integrity had been undermined, only to be replaced by such values as industrial expansion, economic stability, political rivalry, and censorship. Man's place in society had become one of serving the social machine, and his individual needs were subordinated to those of industry and technology. His free will had been lost, and with it the control over his own destiny.

We realize today that our 1984 is not exactly the one George Orwell had predicted. But it seems to come uncomfortably close. Indeed, in this Brave New World of the twentieth century, the human factor IS being progressively removed. The threat of a nuclear holocaust, the menacing pace of computer technology, and the rapid growth of the industrial complex, all contribute into giving modern man a sense of alienation, a desperate feeling that the world is leaving him behind.

It would be false to say that this is the kind of world that we are now entering; the fact is, we have been living in it for years. Only now, we will be exposed. Now, we will have to face the Brave New World directly, without the protective wing of our teachers, and without the secure, cozy atmosphere of our windowless classrooms. This might seem a trifle frightening, but it should not be. For although a high school education is by far insufficient to enable us to cope with the harsh realities of life, this education has provided us with a base, a place to stand on, a little patch of firm ground in the midst of life's uncertainties. And it is from here that we begin to shape our futures, not futures dictated to us by the needs of society, but futures that we have chosen as free and rational individuals, futures that will offer us a sense of self-awareness and a sense of integrity, not indifference. This place to stand on is our first stepping stone along the long and winding path of life, and on it we feel a certain sense of confidence and security. Because we know that what we have learned and what we will earn will always keep us one step ahead: we will not be swept away by the pace of life, we will set that pace; we will not passively accept the future as it is handed down to us - we will guide the future, we will be that future.

This educational base is only a minor part of what we have acquired over the past three years. What seems to be even more important is the fact that we have learned the art of working together. If we do graduate as distinct individuals, each and every one of us with his own distinct goals and aspirations, we also graduate as a part of a group; we graduate as Harry Ainlay Titans. And as Titans, we realize that nothing great can ever be accomplished alone. We realize that any effort is a joint effort, and that only joint efforts can lead to success. We have thus learned to help each other in times of need. We have learned to be understanding, we have learned to be compassionate, and we have learned to love. In a sense, we have learned what it is like to be human. And in 1984, that is quite an accomplishment.

I began with George Orwell's predictions, and am now obliged to return to them. If the dreaded 1984 is ever to arrive, I feel that it will not be arriving now. Because those of us graduating here tonight, those of us who will go on to become the future civilization, are not integers. We are individuals, individuals who are strong, determined, loving and free. We truly are human beings, and as such, Orwell's world can never exist. because as long as the future is comprised of people such as ourselves, we can rest assured that 1984 will remain what it always has been ... a mere prediction.

On behalf of the graduating class of 1984, I bid farewell to Harry Ainlay High School, and sincerely thank those who have made it such a memorable and enlightening experience: our parents, our teachers, our retiring principle, and most of all ourselves - our fellow graduands.

CLASS HISTORIANS

Todd: Well, here we are! Yeah, in how long?
 Scott: 3 weeks, 5 days, 18 hours, 3 minutes, and a few insignificant digits ...
 T: We will have graduated from high school.
 S: Now let's be totally honest. Deep down in our hearts, who is really and truly happy about leaving Harry Ainlay?
 T: Well, I'd say, just in the Grads, there's about 1386, no, 1387 of them.
 S: But there's only 652 people graduating.
 T: See how happy they are?
 S & T: Badoomp dooh - chissh.
 S: Happiness is what it's all about though, eh?
 T: Absolutely. As that highly acclaimed philosopher Steve Martin once put it, "You've got to laugh once a day ..."
 S & T: "... Because a day without sunshine is like ... night!"
 S: Let's start with Grade Ten.
 T: Which time?
 S: Your third, their first. Anyways, for the most part, Grade Ten was just a lot of good, clean fun.
 T: Why are they all smiling?
 S: Beats, me. Actually, Grade Ten wasn't always sunshine and lollipops.
 T: Like the first day of Grade Ten when I walk right into the wrong room for my first class. I was looking for the gym, but somehow I stumbled into ... the Welding 30 class.
 S: Scary! All those massive Grade 12's brandishing a welding torch in one hand and a can of shaving cream in the other.
 T: Aw, but it was quite reassuring to hear that never-to-be-forgotten voice over the P.A. - "W-w-would all of the t-t-turkeys who've been d-doing all the f-fro-fro-hazing p-p-please r-r-report to the office!"
 S: What would we have done without Mr. Stolee behind us for three years. Anyway, it was rather comforting knowing that we had such loving teachers who looked at the class the first day, somewhat like my dog looks at his Gravy Train and says "Why are you feeding me this garbage?"
 T: Actually, we've got to give the teachers some credit, don't you think?
 S: No.
 T: Me neither.
 S: I mean really, what other schools have teachers the likes of Mrs. Sievinsky who, if you're 3 seconds late cuts you down until you feel sooo small ...
 T: How small do you feel?!!
 S: Sooo small you have to look UP to say "hi" to Miss Tougas.
 T: Or Mrs. Sommerville, who casually hands out death threats for the use of lousy grammar.
 S: Or Agrell, who's verbal abuse has been voted the most brutal in the province 3 years running.
 T: Or Mr. Miller, with his patented 953, long answer, 80% of your final mark "little quizzes"
 S: And Mr. Rebryna, who was so kind to invite SOME of the students to a luncheon every second Friday.
 T: Of course, WE never got invited.
 S: Hey, you're right! Aw, well, that's all right. We think he's a super guy anyway.
 T: Hey, we were talking about Grade Ten, you know ... fun, good, clean?
 S: Oh yea, I remember the fun times had by all as we donned our touques and hoser accents, picked up some back-bacon and like, went camping, eh?
 T: And like drove around Ainlay in our cars, eh? Oh, but let's not exclude Moon Unit Zappa and of course Harry Ainlay's own totally tubular Valley Girl Club.
 S: Fer sure.
 T: Like totally.
 S: Oh, gnarly.
 T: And then came Grade 11
 S: One more step up a downward moving escalator.
 T: Grade 11? I don't remember when that was.
 S: Me neither. Which year was that, anyway?
 T: No Mr. Peters, put away your slide rule, I'll use my mind musher, thank you very much! Let's see, we're in Grade 12 now, but we want Grade 11. Ok, $x^2 = -b \pm \sqrt{b^2 - 4ac}$ all over 2 xa .
 S: Well, Mr. Einstein?
 T: Well, by my calculations, it must have been approximately last year!
 S: Wow, did time ever drag! I don't suppose it had much to do with the 57 English essays we were forced to do!
 T: Or the long hours spent learning about Monsieur Roger Dumas in the French Lab.
 S: Or having to cover about 600 years of Social 20 history in roughly 1/1,000,000th of the time. Anyway, Grade 11 ... that's when I started to shave daily.
 T: But more important, we were no longer the little paranoid guys with the school maps and shaving cream remover.
 S: That's absolutely correct! We now had the right to frosh!
 T: Tee-hee, remember when the guy was standing there in his underwear in the team room. And they taped him to a chair, and painted Pac-men and stuff all over his body, hee-hee, and then they put him out in the middle of the rotunda! Ha-ha ho-ho hee-hee huh?
 S: Todd! That was me! Thanks a lot! Geeeeeze!
 T: Whoops - ha, ha - not so funny. Anyway, changing the subject so as to avoid getting chastized severely, I do recall Grade 11 as being the year everybody had a walkman.
 S: What?
 T: See what I mean?
 S: Oh? Grade 11 teachers, you say? I never got to see them much.
 T: Sssh! Your mother's out there!
 S: Oh, uh! What I meant to say was I was so busy taking notes and doing my homework, I never got to see their faces much!
 T: Southgate 20, eh? What a lesson!
 S: Sssh!
 T: Yea, Grade 11 was really something! Thank goodness for Grade 12!
 S: The year of preppy clothing (This message was sponsored by H.A.'s own resident prep and president of the Save the Alligator Foundation, Miss Ann Ewasechko).
 T: Grade 12 was also highlighted by THINGS like Boy George.
 S: Flashdance.
 T: Breakdancing
 S: All of which were slightly overshadowed by the moon-walking Michael Jackson. (Todd puts on shades, moon walks, sits on Paul Ingram's lap, walks back to the podium with limp wrist)
 T: Well?
 S: Ya.
 T: At this point, I'd like to pay our deepest debts of gratitude to the swell guys at Alberta Ed for providing us with the opportunity to experience the joy of writing Departmental Exams. And here to tell you about them is Big Scott from Harry's Dungeon Warehouse!
 S: I don't believe it! We've got English 30, Math 30, Chem 30, Physics 30, Biology 30, and Social 30. Each with their very own Departmental Exam, guaranteed to leave you sleepless at night, just thinking about them. And they're not worth 10, not 20, not 30 or 40, but 50 percent of your final mark! Can't believe it? You'd better believe it! Nobody likes Big Scott!
 T: But seriously, we must salute those valiant Grade 12's ...
 S: Hey, we're Grade 12's too!
 T: Wow, happy Grad!
 S: As I was saying, we must give ourselves a salute. We lived through 3 years at Harry's Dungeon High School.
 T: Three years of daily specials in the cafeteria, like wild turkey surprise.
 S: Hey, this is chicken!
 T: Surprise!
 S: Three years of essays, like mine that's due tomorrow - compare the mating habits of the Peruvian Hairless Yak with Shakespeare's approach to poetry.
 T: Three years of late b'ball practices, marathon S.U. meetings, 5 hour rehearsals, each followed by the incredible feeling of going home to microwaved left-over tuna casserole.
 S: Fellow masochists ...
 T: We salute you!
 S: How about our parents, who we so ungratiously ignored through our daily endeavors.
 T: And for some, yet unknown reason, they supported us enthusiastically.
 S & T: Parents of masochists, we salute you!
 T: And to the teachers and coaches who always went out of their way to see that we had one too many things to do.
 S: Aw, Mr. Poole, I can't go to practice tonight. What about my Peruvian Yak essay??
 T: Sadistic teachers and coaches ...
 S & T: We salute you!
 S: But all joking aside ... to our friends ...
 T: Parents ...
 S: Teachers ...
 T: And peers ...
 S & T: It's been a great 3 years. We thank you.
 T: Goodnight.
 S: Goodnight.

 we should age. These fragile times should never slip us
 by. It's a thing you never can or will erase. As friends together watch their childhood fly."
 Unknown

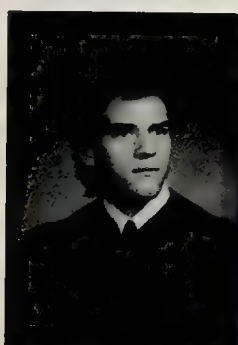

McGHIE, Dean
 "It is a kind of spiritual snobbery that makes people think they can be happy without money. Certainly there are lot's of things in life that money won't buy, but it's funny. Have you ever tried to buy them without money?"

MILLAR, Debbie
 "When we first arrived it was nothing - four walls and space. Now it's full of memories and has become a sacred place."

MILLER, Eric
 "When one has found perfection he searches for faults, if he finds one this thing is no longer perfect, if he admits to imperfection he has found agreement, this being - all that makes sense at the moment is that which does not."

MILLER, Terri
 Cougar, just think, now that graduation is here and gone
 you are now stuck with me for life.

MOROZ, Blayne
 If I had something profound to say, I'd say it. Since I don't, I won't. So here's to say nothing at all.

SCZESNY, Michael
 "... If you are looking for perfect safety, you will do well to sit on a fence and watch the birds."

Wilber Wright, 1901

SERAFIN, Carol
 What I like most about Ainlay was the chance to meet people, and the chance to take courses that would help me with the future endeavors. I want to be happy and successful in whatever I do in life with J.N.

SHAW, Ivan
 "Our destiny exercises its influence over us even when,
 as yet, we have not learned its nature: It is our future that lays down the law of our today."

Friedrich Nietzsche

SHUTT, Craig
I intend to go to University and succeed in life. Basically, my pastimes include skiing and DeMolay. My past glories include trips to Europe, the U.S.A. and across Canada; mostly with DeMolay. Here's to good friends and the future.

SILVERA, Carole
"Mountains can be moved a handful of dirt at a time." (Two handfuls shouldn't hurt.)
D.B. Genung

SIMPSON, Kelly
"I'd rather stay a child and keep my self-respect, when being an adult means being like you!"
Jello Biafra

SINCLAIRE, Kasandra
"Destiny is no matter of chance, it is a matter of choice: It is not a thing to be waited for, it is a thing to be achieved."
William Jennings Bryan

SINGH, Alok
"Nothing in education is astonishing as the amount of ignorance it accumulates form of inert facts."
Henry Adams

SKOREYKO, Mary
"It's no go to the merry-go-round, it's no go to the rickshaw, All we want is a limousine and a ticket for the peep show."
Louis MacNeice

SKUBLENY, Darin
"We know what we are, but know not what we may be."
Shakespeare

SKUBLENY, Mark
"It is always wise to look ahead, but difficult to look farther than you can see."
Winston Churchill

SMITH, Jennifer
"Don't worry about knowing people - just make yourself worth knowing."
Unknown

SMITH, Pam
"To see a world in a grain of sand and a heaven in a wild flower, hold infinity in the palm of your hand and eternity in an hour."
William Blake

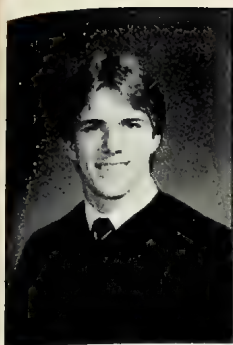

SMOLIK, Zuzana

"We are all in the gutter, but some of us are looking at the stars."
Wilde

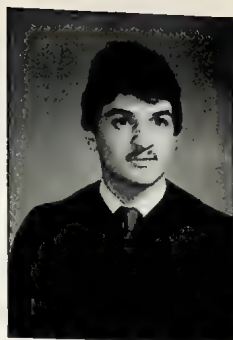

SOKOLIK, Karen
"You can be what you want to and it doesn't matter who you are. It doesn't matter where you are if you wish up on a star."
Unknown

SORENSEN, Ken Scott
 "The best way out is always through."
 Robert Frost

SOROHEY, Janice
 "You are never given a wish without the power to make it come true. You may have to work for it, however."
 Unknown

SPADAFORA, Mike
 "The place where optimism most flourishes is the lunatic asylum," said Papa Smurf to Smurfette."
 Havelock Ellis

STAUFFER, Robert
 "Beauty is in the eye of the beholder, strength is in the arm of the holder."
 Unknown

STOCKS, Mary
 "Everything is a matter of your point of view. Unhappiness is usually nothing more than a sign of false interpretation of life."
 Montherliant

SYCHUK, Sharon
 "I love all beauteous things, I see and adore Him; God hath no better praise, and man in his hasty days is honoured for them."
 Robert Bridges

SYROTIUK, Myron
 My ambition is to survive University and to lead a happy life.

SZABO, Michelle
 "being who I am with the hope of becoming who God intended me to be"
 unknown

TALBOT, Laura
 "To live your life in your own way, to reach for the goals you have set for yourself, to be the you that you want to be ... that is success."
 Unknown

TESKE, Elaine
 "Always be prepared to give an answer to everyone who asks you to give the reason for the hope you have."
 1 Peter 3:15

 Unknown

THOMAS, Shauna
 "If I leave here tomorrow, would you still remember me? I must be travellin' on now 'cause there's too many places that I've got to see."
 Lynyrd Skynyrd

THOMSON, Shauna
 "My life has been an tapestry of rich and royal hue, and everlasting vision of the ever-changing views, a wond'rous woven magic in bits of blue and gold, a tapestry to feel and see, impossible to hold."
 Carole King

TODD, Deanna Kelly
 "If you love something set it free, if it comes back it is yours, if it doesn't it never was."
 Unknown

TONN, Angela
 I believe in laughter even when I don't smile, I believe in the sun even when it doesn't shine, I believe in God even though I can't see Him ... I wish happiness and all the best to those I've met in high school.

TONN, Terri Lynn
 "All things are possible to him that believes." Mark 9:23

TOZER, Suzanne
 "Never look down to test the ground before taking your next step; only he who keeps his eye fixed on the far horizon will find his right road."
 Dag Hammarskjöld

TOZER, Tracy
 "My friends the end is near, I've travelled each and every hallway, Regrets, I've had a few but, I did what I had to do; saw it through with exemption, but more, much more than this, I did it my way."
 Frank Sinatra

TRIBIGER, Marcie
 "Happiness is like a crystal, fair and exquisite and clear. Broken in a million pieces, shattered, scattered far and near."
 Priscilla Leonard

TRIFFO, Dyan
 This year's best entertainment was provided Holzer's hilarious physics classes, Hinz's aggravating views on life, my purple jacket friends and Joe.

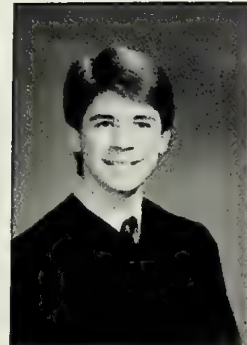

VASEY, Paul
 "I know not all that may be coming, but be it what it will, I'll go to it laughing."
 Stubb

VASSOS, Tracy
 "Whatever your mind can conceive and believe, it will achieve. Dream great dreams and make them true. Do it now. Never affirm self-limitations. What you believe yourself to be, you are."
 Barbara Smallwood and Steve Kilborn

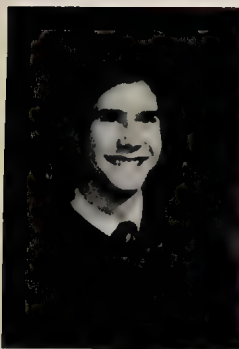

VITEYCHUK, Trudy
